

COUNTY TREASURER HAS GIGANTIC TASK

Is Transferring Names of Delinquent Taxpayers Into One Book.

County Treasurer Ed Dalton has set himself to a gigantic task that will require several months to finish. The job this official has undertaken requires the digging out of and dusting off of tax records and books from the time Oklahoma was admitted to statehood and writing the name of every delinquent taxpayer in one large book.

The first book, which is now being copied, is dated 1908 and it is the plan of the treasurer to take the books used for each year from that time to the present and compile the names of all who owe the county back taxes so that they may be readily found without having to look through a mass of old records.

Some of the books that were first used in this county are in a state of dilapidation and the matter of copying the names into one large record will greatly assist in preserving them as well as facilitating the abstractors and clerks in the county treasurer's office.

The new book cost about $50 and is massive. There is ample room between its great leather covers to inscribe the name of every debtor to the county, but it will take hard and constant work to transfer the transfer of names within ten months time.

ENGINE EXPLODES; CLAIMS 3 VICTIMS

Brakeman and Fireman Dead and Engineer Dying; Shock Jars Buildings.

Special to The World.

MUSKOGEE, Okla., April 15.—Dola E. Larrick, brakeman, and W. E. Jones, fireman, are dead, and Chauncey V. Fuller, engineer of a Missouri, Oklahoma & Gulf freight engine, is dying, as a result of the explosion of the engine at Hoffman, early this afternoon.

John Doyle, conductor, is suffering from severe burns and other injuries. The explosion occurred about half a mile north of the town of Hoffman, which is in Muskogee county. Buildings in the town were shaken by the explosion and bits of steel were hurled over a mile. A relief train was sent to the scene from Muskogee and the injured were brought to the railroad hospital here, where it was said tonight, Fuller and Jones will probably die. Two unidentified men were injured but not seriously.

Although the engine has been in use only a short time, it figured in a fatal accident soon after being put in use when it ran off the track at Atwood, killing a brakeman and a passenger.

WHO VOTED LAST TIME?

Election Registrar for Noble County Is in a Quandary

Special to The World.
PERLEY, Okla., April 15.—E. B. Coppage, recently appointed election registrar for Noble county, is in a quandary as to how he shall deliver registration certificates to the electors who voted at the election of 1914. The ballots and poll sheets of this election were destroyed last fall by the election board, so there is no way of determining upon a correct list of voters. It is probable that everybody will be required to register or else allow all voters to participate in the coming election after making affidavit as to their having voted two years ago.

TEACH CHILDREN TO SEND FIRE ALARMS

Tulsa Department Will Demonstrate Method to School Students.

The Tulsa fire department will pattern after some of the eastern cities, and demonstrate to the schools how to turn in an alarm of fire from a street alarm box.

Tulsa is now out of the village class and the fire department is being handicapped more each month by phone alarms. The people little realize how many streets there are that sound so much alike over the phone that it greatly delays the transmission of the alarm and sometimes results in the department going wrong. The time has come when the department will have the hearty co-operation of the citizens in this matter.

Let each one find out where the nearest box is to his place of business or residence, then discuss with the members of the family how to turn in an alarm from a street box. The department can handle the fire alarm faster and with about 50 per cent less chance of mistake if the people will use the boxes.

Even if you have to go five hundred feet to get to the box, do it and thus help the fire department to be more efficient.

INSECT GALL KILLS TULSA SHADE TREES

State Entomologist Discovers Trees Are Rapidly Destroyed.

The discovery has been made that some of the best and largest oak trees in the city are in danger of being destroyed by the presence of insect gall. Various complaints were made to County Farm Demonstrator Dr. C. E. Earnheart some time ago that beautiful trees were dying rapidly.

State Entomologist Otis Wade was asked to come here and after an inspection of several trees, announced they had been killed by insect gall. The tree disease is said to be spreading at an alarming rate and unless something is done at once many of the finest shade trees, some of them of historic value, will die. According to the expert the gall is worse here than in any other part of the state.

The gall is produced by the eggs of a peculiar insect which affect the bark of the trees. The growth gradually spreads and within a short time the tree dies.

Wade declares the best way to combat the gall is to prune off all the limbs that are affected or if the tree is badly diseased cut it down entirely in order to protect others. Citizens are urged to examine their trees carefully and follow out this direction or there will be a great number destroyed this year.

Next Week Set for Opening of Library

present equipment, doubling the capacity.

To the right of the main lobby is the juvenile department, in which all books for the youngsters will be stored. There are eight tables graduated in height from 24 to 36 inches, in order to accommodate every size boy or girl. There are shelves and magazine racks.

Along the entire south side of the building is the reading and reference room with extensive shelves. Included in the equipment of this department is an up-to-date atlas holder, dictionary stand, catalog case, magazine and newspaper racks, display book for new books, settee in front of fireplace and six reading tables. This room is 60x20 feet.

Has Assembly Room

The substory contains the large assembly, fitted with opera chairs to seat 250 people and a platform, children's story hour and room in front of the main lobby. This is a low ceilinged space and is fitted perfectly for the pictures. In accordance with modern ideas no skylight has been built, but batteries of electric lights are installed.

Two other rooms are upon this floor, the museum, equipped with ten foot cases ready for exhibits and a committee room.

Completely Fitted

The building is furnished throughout with dark oak furniture and similar woodwork. The walls are finished with the glaze, alternating between a rose and a gray. To break the monotony they are blocked off to imitate stone work. Stairways, etc., are finished with Georgia marble and there are two stands at the sides of the entrance on the inside for strollers.

The lighting is all of the semi-indirect style, globes being inverted so as to reflect the light towards the ceiling where it is evenly disseminated. There are two large fireplaces, one in the reference room and another in the juvenile department. The floors are of cement and are covered with cork carpets. The structure is entirely fireproof.

The library will open with 4,500 volumes to fill the space for fifty thousand. Other things which are included are pictures for the art gallery and curios for the museum. It is in the minds of the library board to make this a gathering place for Indian relics, taking advantage of the wonderful opportunities afforded Tulsa.

The library board which is responsible for the building is composed of G. R. McCullough, president; D. J. Davidson, vice-president; Mrs. W. M. Ross, secretary; Mrs. Lee Clinton, Mrs. L. J. Martin, W. T. Brady, Miss Alma Reid McGinnis, who has been with the Tulsa library since its foundation in 1913, will be librarian and she will be one assistant at the opening. Miss McGinnis is a graduate of the Pittsburgh, Pa., library school, and spent years in the Pittsburgh library.

Introduces Amendment

Senator Reed introduced an amendment late today to provide schools to train young men as reserve officers for the army and navy. The secretaries of war and navy would be authorized to divide the country into from six to twelve districts each, containing a school for the instruction of reservists from 14 to 20 years old. Enrollment would be for ten years, the first four to be spent in school and the rest in reserve.
